

The Five Dysfunctions of a Team

Mark Graham

The model

TRUST

Invulnerability

Absence of TRUST

CONFLICT

Werner Prennig

Artificial Harmony

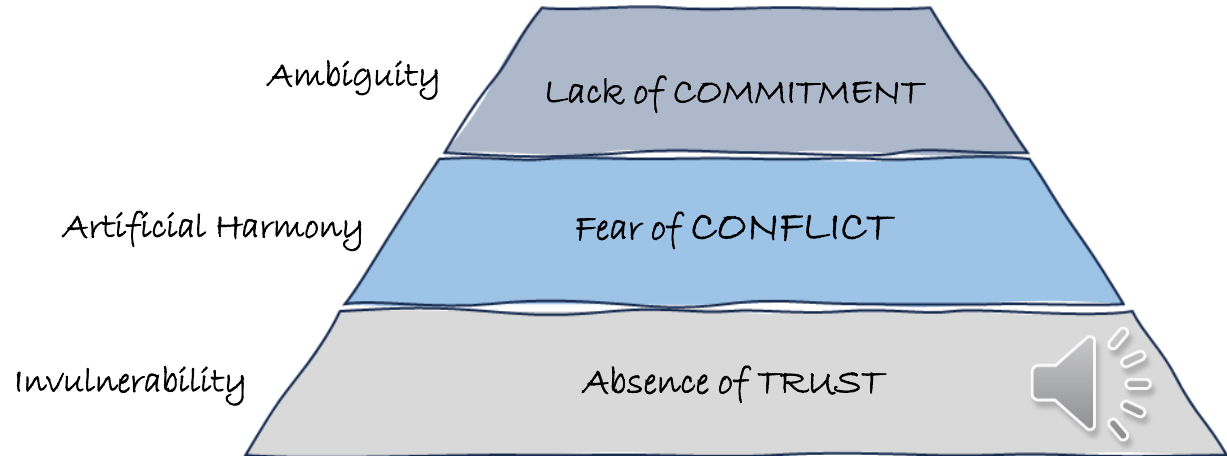

Invulnerability

Fear of CONFLICT

Absence of TRUST

COMMITMENT

ACCOUNTABILITY

Artificial Harmony

Invulnerability

Low standards

Ambiguity

Avoidance of ACCOUNTABILITY

Lack of COMMITMENT

Fear of CONFLICT

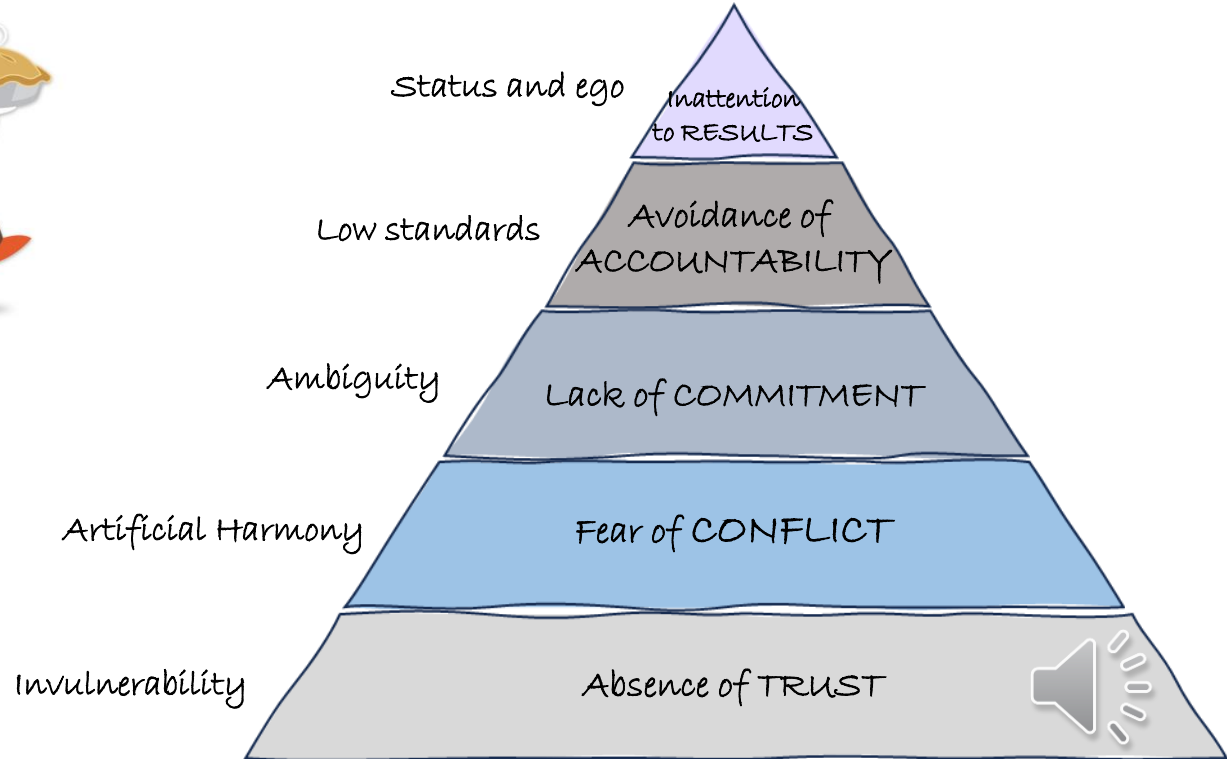

Absence of TRUST

RESULTS

bristol.ac.uk

Review

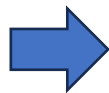

Diagnosis

Dysfunction	Examples of symptoms
Lack of Trust	Hiding mistakes Not asking for help Acting defensively Slow to apologise Never sharing anything about your personal life
Fear of Conflict	Boring meetings Unimportant topics discussed No soliciting the views of others Unpopular opinions never raised Conflictual discussions moved over quickly and left unresolved
Lack of commitment	Revisits same discussions again and again Late for everything or missing opportunities Members unable to clearly articulate what the team is doing or where it is heading.
Avoidance of responsibility	Unequal performance and wide standards Requires regular interventions from team leader to ensure quality/output Needs bureaucratic systems to get compliance via measurement
Inattention to results	Focus on career and individual goals Stagnates Ego / status driven

Diagnosis

Statement 10
 “During discussions,
 team members
 challenge one another about how
 they arrived at their conclusions and
 opinions”

1 – Never

2 - Rarely

3 - Sometimes

4 – Usually

5 - Always

Assessment results	High ≥3.75	Medium 3.25-3.74	Low <3.25
ATTENTION TO RESULTS = 2.64	Your team values collective outcomes more than individual recognition and attainment of status.	Members of your team may be placing too much importance on individual or departmental recognition and ego, rather than focusing on the collective goals of the team.	Your team needs to place greater value on the collective achievement of outcomes, rather than individual or departmental recognition and ego.
ACCOUNTABILITY = 3.00	Your team does not hesitate to confront one another about performance and behavioural concerns.	Your team may be hesitating to confront one another about performance and behavioural concerns.	Your team hesitates to confront one another about performance and behavioural concerns.
COMMITMENT = 3.40	Your team is able to buy-in to clear decisions leaving little room for ambiguity and second-guessing.	Your team may struggle at times to buy-in to clear decisions. This could be creating ambiguity within the organization.	Your team is not able to buy-in to clear decisions, leaving room for ambiguity and second-guessing.
HEALTHY CONFLICT = 3.45	Your team is comfortable engaging in unfiltered discussion around important topics.	Your team may need to learn to engage in more unfiltered discussion around important topics.	Your team is not comfortable engaging in unfiltered discussion around important topics.
TRUST = 3.80	Your team has created an environment where vulnerability and openness are the norm.	Your team may need to get more comfortable being vulnerable and open with one another about individual strengths, weaknesses, mistakes and needs for help.	Your team lacks necessary levels of openness and vulnerability about individual strengths, weaknesses, mistakes and needs for help.

Antidotes

Dysfunction	Example tool to overcome [1]
Lack of Trust	- Personal histories exercise (simple sharing exercises – helping us to recognise the human in others) - Team effectiveness exercise – team identifies the most/least effective contributions others make to the team (this is a tough one!) - Behavioural profiling tools (DISC, MBTI etc.) - Anything that drives shared experiences (teambuilding etc.)
Fear of Conflict	- Conflict mining – someone who can arbitrate a dispute and help the team members to be able to share their points of view - Real-time permission method
Lack of commitment	Project pre-mortems, Worst case analysis, Cascading messaging
Avoidance of responsibility	Regular progress reviews, team rewards (not individual), Publication/recording goals and standards, Team Effectiveness Exercise
Inattention to results	Results based rewards, Public declaration of results, Team Scoreboard, Dashboard

[1] Lencioni, P. (2005) Overcoming the five dysfunctions of a team : a field guide for leaders, managers, and facilitators. San Francisco: Jossey-Bass.
<https://bris.on.worldcat.org/oclc/60397250>

Next steps

- Complete the Team Assessment on Blackboard
- The Five Dysfunctions of a Team: A leadership fable
<https://bris.on.worldcat.org/oclc/155844315>
- Lencioni, P. (2005) Overcoming the five dysfunctions of a team : a field guide for leaders, managers, and facilitators. San Francisco: Jossey-Bass (Leadership fables).
<https://bris.on.worldcat.org/oclc/60397250>
- Are you an ideal team player? Lencioni, TEDx
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PRh80RyT74I>

Thanks for listening!

